1970s Style - All the Way Home!

On a frosty January afternoon, EMD F7A #676 hustles a three-car commuter run through the fields northeast of its final stop in Joliet sometime in the early 1970s. A great alternative to the busy Stevenson Expressway between downtown Chicago and Joliet, thousands of daily commuters settle into the comfortable seats in bi-level coaches for the trip. It sure beats fighting traffic on icy roads!

WalthersProto EMD F7 diesels and Bi-Level commuter cars make adding a commuter train, like this Rock Island "Dummy" somewhere near New Lenox, fast and fun. Other available commuter train equipment includes F7s and bi-levels for Chicago & North Western's "Scoots" and unique P-S gallery cars for Southern Pacific's San Francisco "Commutes."

A Note on Availability

At Walthers, we strive to provide you with the widest variety of product possible. In order to achieve this goal, we maintain significant inventory on site. Despite our best efforts to have every item you could possibly need in house at all times, it is not realistically possible to do so. For your convenience, we do our best to promote items that are in stock and to clearly label other items—those that are new and available for Advance Reservations or items that are low in stock and have Limited Quantities Available when the Flyer goes to press. At times, we experience a quick sell out on a particular item or unexpected demand for an item that we believed to have sufficient stock in house. In many cases, items can be back ordered for future delivery. In other cases, we are unable to secure more of a particular item. For the most up to date availability information, we encourage you to check walthers.com, email us at custserv@walthers.com or call our Customer Service Team at 1-800-4-TRAINS. The 'Find It' feature on our website will help you find a Dealer in your area that may still have stock available for the item you desire. Please know that we appreciate your support of both Walthers and your Local Hobby Shop. We are committed to making this Flyer a valuable part of your model railroading.

EMD SD45

Built: 1966-1971

Roadnames: DRGW†, EL,
MRL, SBD

Primary Assignment: Fast freight and general service.

Fast and powerful six-axle units coming on the scene in the 1960s changed how railroads looked at bigger power forever. One of the first to enjoy widespread success was the radical new SD45, equipped with a 20-cylinder 645E3 prime mover, rated at an incredible 3600-horsepower. At least four are currently preserved.

EMD GP30

Built: 1961-63

Roadnames: ATSF, Chessie/C&O, MILW, RDG

Primary Assignment: Priority main line and later general freight service.

Introducing a variety of new technologies—and the most uniquely styled of all EMD power—the GP30 was a major step forward, churning out 2250-horsepower from its 16-cylinder 567D3 prime mover. At least 17 have been preserved to date and some are still in service after 50+ years!

Built: U28B 1966; U30B 1966-1975

Roadnames: GN, NYC, MILW

Primary Assignment: Fast main line and general freight service.

Demand for more powerful four-axle units was intense by the mid 1960s, with GE, EMD and ALCo all offering units rated at 2500-horsepower. While GE raised the bar in January 1966 with its 2800-horsepower U28B, EMD and ALCo countered with new 3000-horsepower models, forcing GE to follow suit with the U30B in December. Both U28 and U30Bs can still be found in short line service and at least two U30Bs are preserved.

Primary Assignment: High-speed passenger service on Northeast Corridor between New York and Washington.

In Service: 1969-82; one preserved Snack Bar Coach.

Developed for the Northeast Corridor (NEC) by the Pennsylvania Railroad, Budd, Westinghouse and General Electric, the Metroliner introduced America to high-speed rail service. Entering scheduled service early in 1969 with Penn Central, the new electric multiple-unit (EMU) cars were patterned after contemporary airliners, and offered similar amenities. A typical six-car train included four Coaches, a Snack Bar Coach and a Parlor, and regularly operated at speeds over 100mph, a considerable accomplishment at the time. After 1971, Metroliners became a bright spot in Amtrak operations, handling millions of riders between Washington and New York. By 1982, and after years of hard service, the Metroliners had run their last miles on the NEC and under their own power. Keeping their overhead pantographs to power lighting, heating and air conditioning systems, they were reassigned as standard cars on trains between Philadelphia and Harrisburg, until finally being withdrawn in 1995. Snack Bar Coach #860 is preserved at the Railroad Museum of Pennsylvania.

The Complete Passenger Train in One Car

Far beyond the territory of flashy streamliners, many secondary runs were modernized overnight with the arrival of a Budd Rail Diesel Car (RDC). The lightweight stainless steel cars featured onboard diesel drives and could be run alone or coupled together as traffic demanded, and run by a single engineer.

Coil Carriers

Among the unusual loads moved by railroads are large metal coils used to make automobile bodies, appliances and other products. Because of their size (6 to 10' in diameter) and weight, coils are more easily shipped by rail than by truck. Classified as both gondolas and flatcars, coil cars feature a V-shaped cradle in place of the usual floor. On the prototypes, adjustable retainers hold the coils in place and a cushion underframe helps prevent end-to-end load shifting. Removable hoods protect the coils from the weather.

These WalthersProto models feature factory-installed grab irons, lift brackets and stack brackets. They are equipped with etched metal walkways, RP-25 metal wheels, correct 36" turned metal wheelsets and Proto MAX™ metal knuckle couplers. The removable hoods come round or angled as appropriate to roadname.
